

WP3.1 Field Day report from Lännäs, Sweden

Date: 15 August 2024

Place: Lantmännen in Lännäs, Sweden

Participants: 56 people

In the middle of August, Lantmännen had its annual field day in Lännäs. The field day was aimed primarily at farmers in northern Sweden. We presented the project and all the participants and then showed the mini-plot trial. We talked about the different varieties in the trial, and how they differ in earliness and straw strength. The trial also contained varieties with special qualities like high beta glucan or fat, and we also explained how some of the varieties are very old whereas others are quite new on the market. We got some reactions about the big variation between the varieties, with plant height being the easiest to spot.
